INQUEST

In Progress at Elyria De- velops Little so Far.

Chief of Police Discredits the Work Of Indiana Bloodhounds.

Lorain Murder is Solved But it is Becoming Clear That There is Not Enough Evidence to Justify Holding Father Walser.

Lorain, Ohio, May 5—(Bulletin)—The Lorain murder is still unsolved, but it is becoming quite clear that there is not enough evidence against Father Walser to justify the police in holding him. All the officials involved in the prosecution agree that the facts so far known do not constitute a case against the priest.

Elyria, O., May 5—The grand jury room in the court house where the Reichlin murder inquest is being held was crowded when prosecutor Stroup called the roll of the witnesses summoned today at 10:10 a. m. In the hallway many stood waiting eagerly for a word from within, being unable to gain entrance. The witnesses announced at the outset were Casimer Reichlin, Father Walser, P. J. Master-son, Police Captain Ketchum, Geo. Jennings, J. H. Kopler, Martin Reichlin, Wm. Sheehan, J. J. Hoffman, Noah Spradlin, Police Chief G. J. Braham and W. J. Hills.

Captain S. S. Ketchum, night chief of police at Lorain, was called. He said he was called to the Reichlin house at 1:10 a. m. Friday. He was asked for a description of the priest's home and to the best of his knowledge he gave it. Considerable time was devoted to the hallway, leading from the sitting room, up stairs, and the doors leading from the landing into Casimer Reichlin's and Agatha Reichlin's room and to the surroundings outside the house. He said it was the first time he had ever been called to the Reichlin house. He was asked if he had examined the door between the attic and Agatha's room. He had but could recall nothing unusual about it except that it locked from the inside. He believed that he had been called by Father Walser at 1:10 or 1:15 this contradicts the statement of Casimer Reichlin, who has said that he called the police.

The call was in the following words: "Send officers to the parsonage of St. Joseph's Catholic church. The housekeeper has been murdered." He also testified that Casimer Reichlin was fully dressed when he arrived. Father Walser had on all his clothing with the exception of his coat and hat.

Nothing was developed that has not yet been made public except that Capt. Ketchum discredited the work of the blood hounds, saying that the dogs not only went to Father Walser's bed but to every bed in the house, showing no greater interest in one than another. He said also that he found mud on the ladder and muddy boot tracks in the garret through the window of which many suppose the murderer entered.

San Domingo Situation May Bring Serious Trouble

Washington, May 5—San Domingo is in dire straits. A letter received at the State department today verifies the story that payments on government bonds have been defaulted for more than five months. Belgian bond holders have the right to take posses-

reau Published Tuesday—The General Outlook Favorable.

Preparations for planting have progressed favorably in the Ohio valley and middle Atlantic states. Little progress has been made in the states of the Upper Missouri valley and the Lake regions. The present season to date has been very unfavorable for corn, planting being greatly delayed. She asks that Charles M. Vanatta be restrained from interfering with her or their children, and from taking any of their goods and property, and from drawing any of the indebtedness due him from the Electric Railway company, and from drawing any of the money from Ellen Vanatta, a bank or building association.

ALARMING

Advices Brought by Steamer Olympia From Orient.

Japan and Russia Rushing the War Late Preparations.

Whole Trend of the News is Warlike in the Ex- treme—A State of Siege is Declared by Russian Authorities.

Victoria, B. C., May 5—Alarming advices have been received from the Orient by the steamer Olympia, just arrived here from Yokohama. Both Japan and Russia are rushing warlike preparations on a large scale, and warships at both Vladivostok and Yokohama are being held in readiness for hostilities in Manchuria. The whole trend of the news is warlike in the extreme.

A Japanese military officer who has just returned from New Chwang is quoted by the Jiji Shimo as saying, that, according to all appearances, Russia is undoubtedly preparing for war in Manchuria, and great alarm is felt at New Chwang. The officer also stated that Russians detained the Mukden Taoist to prevent his appearance at New Chwang, in order to seize that port on the pretext furnished by his non-arrival.

Dispatches are printed by Japanese papers to the effect that a state of siege has been declared by the Russian authorities at Taiten Kinchow and thence on the Yalu river. Military maneuvers are taking place involving much tent and field work. The Russians assert that the movement is attributable to the strained relations between Russia and Japan.

DEFENSE

Set Up by Ex-Mayor Ames is Fact that
He is a Victim of Incipient Paralysis.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 5—That ex-Mayor A. A. Ames is the victim of incipient paralysis and insanity will be the only defense set up by his attorneys in the trial for bribery and extortion now in progress here. The case for the state has been closed. The prosecution resting after introducing a quantity of the most unsavory testimony. The cross examination by the defense was perfunctory.

When the state rested its case, the attorneys for the defense asked for a recess, and went into consultation to decide upon a line of action. Formal pleas for dismissal will be filed, and upon their being overruled, it is practically certain that Dr. Ames will be represented as mentally irresponsible, and insanity asked on the theory.

SENIORS WON

DEFEATED FACULTY BY A SCORE OF 7 TO 8.

Large Crowd Attended the Game at Granville Monday Afternoon—A Strong Game.

Granville, O., May 5.—The annual ball game between the Seniors and members of the faculty took place on Beaver field on Monday afternoon. About 2 o'clock in the afternoon the Seniors made their appearance on the streets in English's band wagon of Newark, and made the welkin ring with their cheering and college song. Shortly after the juniors and faculty, with as much spirit if not such loud display were borne through the streets of the village on a large wagon. At 3:30 the two wagons met on Beaver Field, the Senior wagon decorated in the red and white, and that of the faculty in the Junior colors the red and blue. A large crowd of spectators had assembled to witness the game, and when the contestants appeared on the grounds they were loudly cheered. The game was a cracker-jack from the start to finish. The members of the faculty team put up a strong game, but it was of no use, the Seniors were a little too much for them, and when the game came to a close at the end of the sixth inning, the score stood 8 to 7 in favor of the Seniors. The game was one of the best ever played between the Seniors and the Faculty, and all those who witnessed it felt amply repaid for patronizing the players.

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Agricultural Education.

The importance of agricultural education leads us to risk becoming tedious in our advocacy of it. We favor increased facilities for agricultural schools wherever they are inadequate. They are inadequate in Pennsylvania. The total value of the buildings and equipment for agricultural education in this state is $27,700; in Ohio, $150,000; in New York, $157,000; in Iowa, $175,000; in Illinois, $194,500; in Massachusetts, $228,000; in Minnesota, $347,500; and in Wisconsin, $555,000. Statistics are unnecessary, however, to any one who has seen the schools. No short courses in Pennsylvania because no place to run them. No dairy instructor in a state that stands among the first in extent of its dairy industry. During the past sixteen years agricultural education has received a little over one-eleventh of the state's appropriations for education at State college. Are there ten industries or interests in Pennsylvania of equal importance with agriculture? No, not one. Moreover, the other industries are well provided for in the various universities and technical schools, whereas agriculture has no other school than the one at State college. Pennsylvania has not even a state fair, as the other states above named have. Need we say more to show why the bill now before the legislature should become a law?—Stockman and Farmer.

Caring Scours in Calves.

We have had a great deal of trouble with scours or calf cholera, which usually occurs the second or third day. We have tried a great many different ineffective remedies, but reading an article in the Breeder's Gazette recommending rennet tablets we tried them and found them very good, especially for young lambs, writes Theodore Degen-

Marion Fry Who Went to Battle Creek Owing to Ill Health Hanged Himself in His Room.

Bladensburg, O., May 5.—Marion Fry, aged 32 years, for many years a resident of this village, committed suicide at Battle Creek, Michigan. Despondency is supposed to have been the cause.

The body of young Fry was discovered hanging from a rope attached to the ceiling of his room in the sanitarium at Battle Creek.

Mr. Fry left Bladensburg one week ago last Thursday for Battle Creek, intending to stay several weeks for the benefit of his health. He had not been well for several months and it was thought that he would be benefited at the sanitarium in Battle Creek.

The deceased was born and raised at Bladensburg and is survived by his mother and by five sisters and two brothers. The funeral took place here today.

The deceased was 40 years of age and is survived by his wife and seven children, the oldest being 14 years and the youngest 6 months. His wife was formerly Miss Minnie Doose of Pleasant township. About two years ago, Mr. Bebout was run over by a large roller while working in a field and since that time he was never well.

BITTER FIGHT IN SIGHT.

Delaware, O., May 5.—All of the city officials under the new code were sworn in last night and at a meeting of the City Council a petition, signed by nearly 900 electors, was presented asking for a special election under the local option law. A special committee was appointed to consider the prayer of the petition, to report next Monday night. A bitter fight between the "wets" and "drys" will be on here in less than 30 days after the time limited by the law.

Scale Insects and Fruit.

So much has been written concerning scale insects and fungi on trees that a few lines only are now contemplated to bespeak attention to the subject from those who should be interested. From one end of the country to the other, trees are becoming full of scale and other insects, and this evil, together with that of fungi, requires constant attention. It is not alone from nurseries that the evils are spread. Private orchards are infested in almost or quite every state, and from these trees birds carry the insects on their feet from one tree to another. Almost all nurseries are fairly clean of insects, some of them entirely so. The inspection laws of most states compel yearly examinations of the trees, and, besides this, the nurseryman's interests call for clean stock. Every one having fruit trees or bushes should be prepared to meet the foe. The best thing to do at the present time is to write to the advertisers of sprayers for their pamphlets concerning the subject. Very many that I have seen give formulas for making the various compounds, the time when spraying should be performed, and general information on the subject of great value.—Practical Farmer.

The Farmer's Accounts.

In almost every community there are one or two persons who have some knowledge of bookkeeping, inventories and accounts, if indeed they may not be retired experts in this class of work.

TELEPHONE

EXCHANGE SOON TO BE BUILT AT HEBRON.

Bell Application Was Tabled for 30 Days, While the Independents Were Given a Franchise.

Hebron, O., May 5.—The Independents have just won the first round in a fight with the Bell Telephone company at Hebron. Some time ago the Bell people sent solicitors to town and secured, it is said, 65 subscribers. Application was made for a franchise and the matter came up last night. Judge B. M. Critchfield, who has built the new exchanges at Utica, Croton, Jo'm-town, Pataskala and Homer made application for a franchise and members of the Newark company who visited the village promised the same arrangement with the proposed exchange at Hebron as exists with other exchanges of the county.

The Hebron council took the franchise question up, tabled the Bell application for 30 days and granted, under a suspension of the rules a franchise to Judge Critchfield. The construction of a new independent exchange having connection with the independent exchanges at Newark and other Licking county points with long distance connection with the United States company, will be commenced at once.

The independent exchanges in this county give connection with over 100 subscribers at present and the Newark exchange, which is daily growing has between 1100 and 1200 now.

CONDUCTOR'S FATE.

Coshocton, O., May 5.—Charles McDougal, Pan Handle conductor, showed remarkable nerve yesterday between here and Columbus, when both legs were cut off by his own train passing over them. When his trainmen came to his rescue he was endeavoring to draw the severed portions from underneath the car. He was taken to a Columbus hospital.

GAS WELL SHOT.

Brandon, O., May 5.—The C. C. Baughman gas well, which was drilled in Saturday, was shot yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The work is in charge of a man from Corning, Ohio, who arrived with the nitroglycerine necessary. While the explosive was being lowered about 1 o'clock the cable broke and this delayed operations.

LORENZ OPERATION.

Zanesville, O., May 5.—Dr. Holden, assisted by Drs. Hanna and Klemm, performed a successful bloodless (Lorenz) operation for congenital dislocation of the hip at the city hospital yesterday on the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Weitzel of Gilbert street. She is doing nicely. This is the first operation of its kind ever performed in this city.

It would pay many a farmer to hire such a person to make out for him an itemized statement of his assets and liabilities, so that he can start in fresh with an exact knowledge as to just where he stands. Then, even if no regular books are kept, a similar inventory at the end of the year will show the farmer whether he has gained or lost. No business except farming is good enough to stand the carelessness in the matter of financial accounts such as characterizes so many farmers.—American Agriculturist.

The Best Cow.

The best cow for each one of us is the cow we like best to handle and be around. There is such a thing as incompatibility of temperament between the man and his cow oftentimes, and this fact often marks the line between success and failure. The man who loves his cows and cares for them as a man will who has this affection for his stock will most assuredly receive better returns for his labor than the one who simply tolerates his dairy. The man who takes pride in the Guernsey or the Jersey or the Durham should turn his attention to that particular breed.—Dairy and Creamery.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A MYSTERIOUS MINERAL

Marvelous Possibilities of Radium Described by a Scientist.

SOON TO BE PUT ON THE MARKET

The Societe Centrale of France Will Offer a Preparation Nearly Chemically Pure For $2,338,000 a Pound. Two Countries in Three Years Produced Only One Pound of This Newest Salt.

The marvelous possibilities of that mysterious and precious mineral, radium, were recently brought out at New York to the members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Electro-technical society by William J. Hammer, a scientist and engineer, says the Philadelphia Press. It will be some time, however, before the wonderful properties of radium will be of commercial value, as the mineral, chemically pure, now costs $2,338,000 a gram, or about $2,438,000 a pound.

"It is doubtful," said Mr. Hammer, "whether any substance has been discovered in the history of the world of such stupendous interest and importance and possessing such puzzling characteristics as radium, which, moreover, is at almost complete variance with well established scientific theories as to the constitution of matter."

"Within the past month great interest has been attracted by the statement made by Professors Curie and Laborde that radium maintains its own temperature at 1.5 centigrades above its surroundings, this being equivalent to stating that half a pound of radium salt would evolve in one hour sufficient heat to equal that caused by the burning of one-third of a cubic foot of hydrogen gas and that the heat evolved from pure radium salt is sufficient to melt more than its own weight of ice every hour. This evolution of heat, going on constantly for indefinite periods and leaving the radium at the end of months of activity as potent as it was at the beginning, furnishes the problem to the world of how radium can constantly throw off heat without combustion or without chemical change.

"The laboratory where radium is prepared is under the control of Professor Curie, and up to a recent date all radium of higher radio activity than 7,000 has been retained for the experiments of M. and Mme. Curie and their associates, but I received a letter recently from the Societe Centrale in which I was informed that they will shortly put upon the market a preparation of radium, chemically pure or nearly so, at a cost of 30,000 francs ($4,000) per gram, or about $2,438,000 per pound. Radium, while it has been spoken of as a metal, has never been secured in a metallic form, the usual form being as a chloride or bromide.

"All the work done in Germany and France in the past three years has only resulted in the securing of about one pound of radium, this including all grades or qualities."

In illustrating the X ray character of radium rays Mr. Hammer produced a photograph illustrating the penetration of the rays through black paper, a single sheet of which is entirely impervious to light. The exposure was made in twenty-four hours.

Another interesting illustration was that of a mouse which was photographed in twenty-four hours by laying it directly on a plate, which was, as in the case of other experiments, placed in the bottom of a trunk, the trays being replaced and the trunk wrapped in three thick rugs and kept in a dark room for twenty-four hours.

"Perhaps the most interesting of all was the radiograph of a mouse caught in a trap. The metal parts of the trap are shown opaque, whereas the portion of the wood nearest to the radium is shown absolutely transparent.

A VICTOR HUGO MUSEUM.

Quaint Collection of Souvenirs of the Great French Novelist.

The Victor Hugo museum, on Place des Vosges, will be opened from President Loubet returns from Algeria, says the Paris correspondent of the New York World. A French clerk who gets $86 a month returning from Hugo's funeral saw in a crockery shop a cheap plate with Hugo's photograph printed on it. He bought it, and that plate was the nucleus of the Hugo museum, which contains 500 relics of the great writer.

The collection is made up of plates, soap, perfume, saucers, bottles, tobacco pouches, chairs, etc., all souvenirs of Victor Hugo contributed by the common people, showing how widespread is his fame and the people's love for him. "Les Misérables," "Elixir" and the "Maria, Delorme" shoe are of the number.

A Monument to Cooks.

It is proposed to erect what is termed a monument commemorative of the culinary glories of France in the center of the great markets of Paris, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. A committee of city men headed by a noted restaurateur has been formed for the purpose. The memorial is to be a large fountain ornamented by medallions of the celebrated gastronomic authorities of France, who wrote on the culinary art. Brillat-Savarin, author of "La Physiologie du Gout," in which occurs the famous phrase, "L'homme d'esprit sans son manger," Grimod de la Reyniere and two other food experts of the past. Around the fountain there are to be sculptured figures of fishwives, oyster women, poultry and pig market vendors, salad sellers and champion market porters, all "forts de la halle."

Jim Dumps at night would sometimes say,
"Come, wife, let's go to see a play."
Nor did he seek a restaurant
For rounding out their little jaunt.
A better plan occurred to him,
"Some 'Force' at home!" cried Sunny Jim.

The Ready-to-Serve Cereal

"what say you to such a supper?"—Shakespeare.

Sweet, crisp flakes of wheat and malt.

Sweetness That Never Fails.

During a sleepless night the Vizier Mujjeduddin Kumja dispatched his slave, Bedrudin Ejaz, to bring him sweets. The slave procured a copper kettle heaped with many kinds of fruits and sweets, and Mujjeduddin began to eat.

"You relish them; my master?" asked the slave.

"These fruits are sweet—for the moment," he said, "but show me a fruit the sweetness of which will endure even unto the judgment day."

"Such fruits there are, my master," cried the slave and hastened toward the Mesched Hussa, where he awoke the starving orphans in the house of Alvin and led them forth and into the room of his master. Overjoyed, the furnished children devoured the fruits.

"Look, oh, my master," said the slave. Here you see fruits the sweetness of which endures unto the judgment day."—New York Press.

Betrothal Customs.

The Scandinavian bridegroom presents to his betrothed a prayer book and many other gifts, which usually include a goose. She in turn gives him, especially in Sweden, a shirt, and this he invariably wears on his wedding day. Afterward he puts it away, and under no circumstances will he wear it again while alive. But he wears it in his grave, and there are Swedes who earnestly believe not only in the resurrection of the body, but in the veritable resurrection of the betrothal shirts of such husbands as have never broken any of their marriage vows. The Swedish widower must destroy on the eve of his second marriage the bridal shirt which his first wife gave him.

To Boil Water Without a Kettle.

"My wife and I," says a traveling man, "were once in a hotel where we couldn't get any boiling water. After we had discussed the situation my wife asked me if I had an envelope in my satchel. I got one out, when she told me to fill it with water and hold it over the gas jet. I hesitated, but finally did it and expected to see the envelope blaze up every minute. But it didn't blaze. The envelope took on a little soot, but that was all. The water boiled in time, and the envelope was as good as ever when the experiment was at an end. I don't know the chemistry of the process, but try it yourself and see if it will not work."

The Oriental Amethyst.

The oriental amethyst is really a violet colored sapphire, which is an exceedingly rare gem and of brilliant luster. It is regarded as a sacred stone, and it is used to ornament the cross and the pastoral ring of Catholic bishops. The ancients often used the amethyst for cutting figures both in relief and in intaglio, and there is in the national library of France a delicately wrought profile of Meeenas, a Roman statesman of Octavian's time, engraved on amethyst by Dioscorides, one of the four celebrated engravers mentioned by Pliny.

Caught the Students.

There was formerly a barber in Harvard square who caught the university custom with this classic appeal which some friendly patron suggested:

Siste, viator,
Subolite collum tonsori
Et alio alter Adonis.

"Traveler, stay, submit your neck to the barber and depart a second Adonis."

Businesslike.

"Some people," said the clerk with a slight sneer, "seem to think that signing checks is the most important thing in life."

"I know it," rejoined Senator Sorghum, "and it's a mistake, my boy; a sad mistake. Getting the money in bank in the first place is what counts."

Quick Arrest.

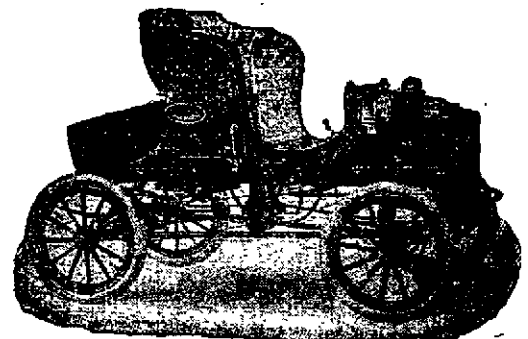

J. A. Gullegh of Verbena, Ala. was twice in the hospital from a severe case of piles, causing 24 tumors. After doctors and all remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve quickly arrested further inflammation and cured him. It conquers aches and kills pain. 25c at Frank D. Hall's drug store.

A Bath at Tifis.

To take a bath at Tifis is to court a wonderful experience. Abundant springs of water, strongly impregnated with sulphureted hydrogen, supply the building, and in its vaulted chambers, far below the street, there is no sound but the splash of the fountain and the rolling echo of one's own voice. Henry Norman gives a description of the masseur who presides over the bath and makes its most eccentric feature.

"He is a Persian, who speaks but a word or two of Russian. His head is shaved, a rag is twisted round his waist, and his feet are dyed orange. First he rubs you, and then suddenly, as you lie face downward on the marble slab, he is upon your back, his feet dug into your spine, his hands grasping your shoulders, to increase the pressure. Slowly, with skillful appreciation of every muscle, his feet grind up and down your back. They encircle your neck. They are on your head."

"Then he vaults lightly off, and in a moment from a linen bag filled with soap he has squeezed clouds of perfumed bubbles, and you are hidden in them from head to foot as completely as if you had fallen into a snowdrift. You are not absolutely bruised, but you are clean."

SUFFERED 15 YEARS

I have been a sufferer for the last 15 years with Dyspepsia and have tried every remedy available and also many doctors, but found no relief until I purchased a 25 cent package of ACKER'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS which helped me immediately, and two boxes entirely cured. Hoping I may benefit some other sufferer, I ask you to publish this. Thomas I. Springfield, 145 South Mechanic street, Springfield, O. Send to W. H. Hooker & Co., Buffalo, N. A prominent Southern lady, Mrs. Blanchard, of Nashville, Tenn., tells how she was cured of backache, dizziness, painful and irregular periods by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. PINKHAM:—Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and fitful sleep. I dreaded the time to come which would only mean suffering to me. Better health is all I wanted, and cure if possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. Life seems new and sweet to me, and everything seems pleasant and easy."

"Six bottles brought me health, and was worth more than months under the doctor's care, which really did not benefit me at all. I am satisfied there is no medicine so good for sick women as your Vegetable Compound, and I advocate it to my lady friends in need of medical help."—Mrs. B. A. BLANCHARD, 422 Broad St., Nashville, Tenn.

"When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, 'all-gone' and 'want-to-be-left-alone' feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best."

A Severe Case of Womb Trouble Cured in Philadelphia.
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been cured of severe female troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was nearly ready to give up, but seeing your advertisement I purchased one bottle of your medicine, and it did me so much good that I purchased another, and the result was so satisfactory that I bought six more bottles, and am now feeling like a new woman. I shall never be without it. I hope that my testimonial will convince women that your Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine in the world for failing of the womb or any other female complaints."—Mrs. MAY CONR, 2660 Birch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Her address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it.

WILY TURKS SEEKS AID OF POWERS.

Constantinople, May 5.—Strong suspicions are again manifest with regard to Russia's good faith in the Balkan crisis. However, M. Zionsieff the Russian ambassador, denies all allegations to the effect that the czar is weakening in his allegiance to the Common alliance.

Thus far no rent appears in the unity of the powers. The situation is gathering rather than losing complications. The ambassadors of the powers are holding frequent meetings to consider the train of fresh developments.

Turkey is sounding the powers to ascertain whether they will sanction an attack on Bulgaria, should it prove impossible otherwise to restore order. It is possible that the powers might consent to such an attack in the last extremity, but few, if any of them, relish the prospect. They fear that operations on a large scale would excite the trouble indefinitely.

Immortality of Jokes.
Whoever does not believe in immortality, let him turn his eye upon jokes. No joke has ever been known to die. Even the weakest from its very birth lives forever. Now and then a joke will work overtime too consistently and will have to go to the hospital of temporary oblivion for a rest. But it always returns to do business with a clean bill of health and semiofficially a new tie or a fresh collar. As a rule, however, it wears the same old celluloid neckband and faded scarf of long-lived Time.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Putting Down the Pickle.
"Put down that pickle!"
The words were uttered harshly and hurriedly by the sergeant to an ungracious private who, carried away by his hungry passions, had snatched a pickle from the barrel.
"Ah! why should I put down the pickle?" queries the private mildly.
"Put down that pickle, that's all I want of you!" returned the sergeant determinedly.
"Down it goes, then!" cried he. And stuffing it into his mouth it quickly disappeared.—Illustrated Bits.

One of the assassins of Governor Goebel of Kentucky, has been convicted for a third time of murder and sentenced to imprisonment for life. The natural and common sense presumption is that he is guilty and merited the same fate that was meted out to the assassins of Garfield and McKinley. Republican papers in sympathy with the conspiracy for murder attempt to make it out the jury was unable to agree, and was forced to the verdict. The jury, having the power under the law to name the penalty, disagreed as to the punishment. Eleven jurors believed in the death penalty, and one for life imprisonment. He had his way and convinced the "eleven other stubborn fellows." Howard, the convicted assassin, probably merits a degree of sympathy, as he was the paid agent of men high in the councils of the Republican party of Kentucky. The murder was planned for him, and his part was merely to sight the rifle and pull the trigger.

MOSER'S REPLY.

The Councilman Answers Published Statement of Supt. Brown of the City Electric Light Plant-- Explanation of the Council's Order That Brown Refused to Obey.

Editor Advocate—In reply to a statement made by Mr. Brown, Superintendent of the City Electric Light plant, I will endeavor to answer as briefly as possible the exact occurrence that took place on the night of April 28. Mr. Banton, representative of the Sixth ward in the council, and Chairman of the Light Committee, recommended the purchase of a dynamo for the city of Newark, and also recommended the purchase of one Brush Generator Machine, of the General Electric Light company. He had a representative of the company here on a certain day, and called for a meeting of the Light Committee. In response to the call, Messrs. Moser, Matticks and Jones were present. There was also present Mr. Brown, Mr. Banton and a representative of the General Electric company. We were invited to sign a contract for the machine, and Messrs. Matticks, Jones and Moser refused to do so on the ground that there were no competitor bids in. We, the committee, supposed that such dynamo were made by nearly every electric company, and when informed that they were not, we demanded a further investigation, the result of which was that for more than three months we waited for our chairman to call a meeting, but no call was issued. During all this time we have written and investigated the matter of lighting and find that the Western Electric dynamo now in use, which was purchased two years ago, is giving good results. At the meeting of the committee and representative of Mr. Banton's proposed machine, Mr. Brown stated that the Western Electric machine that he now finds fault with was giving perfect satisfaction; that it had been running for two years and had not cost the city a single cent for repairs, and upon such a recommendation the bid from the Western Electric company, was reported to the city council and adopted.

After the purchase of the Western Electric machine then comes a statement issued by Messrs. Brown and Banton that the proposed dynamo was not good, and that it was not up-to-date. Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Banton seconded the motion to purchase this dynamo, and Mr. Brown's statement that it has given no trouble, they now say that it is not what we want, and the fact has just been demonstrated to the council that there was something wrong. Then comes the call for an expert to come here and examine the dynamo at the City Electric Light plant. Thirteen members of the council went to the plant in company with Mr. DeCrow, formerly of this city, now of Chicago, to make good the demands of the people who were saying that such and such could not be done. When we arrived at the plant, upon request of J. R. Moser to have the Chairman of the Light Committee to call a meeting there and have Superintendent Brown throw on the required number of lights on the machine, the Chairman, Mr. Banton, objected, and said that he would not call a meeting. Why was it that he did not want the proof to be made, or did he favor the General Electric company? He said that the plant belonged to the city and not to the Western Electric company, and no test should be made unless Mr. DeCrow would furnish a bond of $15,000 to which proposition the latter agreed, as did the twelve members of the city council, that no damage be done if the test be made. Upon request of the Light Committee J. R. Moser was called on as Chairman of the committee and fulfilled the requirements of the council in bringing about the test. He went to Superintendent Brown and told him he had been requested by the Light Committee and members of the council to have him put on one hundred and twenty-five lights on the machine. This Brown refused to do, thereby ignoring the committee and the entire city council by saying that he did not care what the council said, he would not do it. It is plain to see that Brown knew that the dynamo was all right, and every member of the council feels confident that it was all right, for the simple reason that the Superintendent did not want to make any test. In regard to Mr. Brown's action at the plant, the councilmen were dumfounded, and the statement that we did not mention the bond to him is not true. I told him it that was all he wanted, Mr. DeCrow was here with the goods, and could furnish that amount if the test was allowed to be made. But to all this he said he did not care what any of us said, he would not do as he had been ordered by the Council to do.

I deem it proper in this connection to remind the public of the difference between the two propositions made by the General Electric Company, which the council rejected, and the Western Electric Company, from whom the dynamo was purchased.

The General Electric's bid for a new 125 light dynamo was $2880 and two old dynamos in exchange.

The Western Electric's bid for a new 125 light dynamo was $2250 and one old dynamo in exchange.

In regard to Mr. Brown's saying that he had been at the plant for five years, and that he had not experienced with the city property, is all very good as far as goes, but what about the remark about having a bad circuit on the lines? What has he been doing all this time that the lines are in bad condition? Why does not he fix up the system, if he wants good results? Why is it that we, the Light Committee, hear about the lights not working properly? If he doesn't see to the repairing of the same? If he so desires I can furnish him with over forty places that the installation is bad, as I have the number of houses in different parts of the city that may be readily repaired if he, Brown, wants to do his duty and the fair thing.

"OUR BROTHERS IN BLACK."

"An Address From the South to the North."

The negro problem, so conspicuous in both the north and south at present, has inspired a strong poem, "Our Brothers in Black; an Address From the South to the North," by Clarence Omsley, editor of the Houston Post. This poem, which, in the opinion of many southerners, expresses the south's true attitude toward the negro, is in part as follows:

We forged, too, a bond of affection
More firm than the tie you gave.
To seal of us the sacred and the serving,
The love of the master and slave.
We sucked the breasts of their mammies;
They fed from the fat of our store,
And, called to the far field of conflict,
We left them on guard at our door.

We bowed to the God of the battle—
We own he was wiser than we—
And patiently took up the burden
Of teaching the bond to be free.
For wronging, if wrong was committed,
The rod had been laid out back,
Yet, stricken, we knew it was ours
To guard our brothers in black.

Instead you made wreckage of statehood;
You loosed us the terrors of race;
And only our God and our virgins
Know what we were called on to face.
At last, by the right of the Saxon,
By strength that was bred in the bone,
By law that is higher than statute,
We came in the end to our own.

Again we gave cheerful compliance;
We took up the burden with care;
We gave them the blessings of learning;
We pay—they receive—share for share.
And full opportunity opens
To black man and white man the same
To follow the bent of his genius
To fortune and culture and fame.

By parallel lines they are treading
The highways all peoples have trod,
But socially there is a chasm
Dog deep in the wisdom of God.
To seal of us the sacred and the serving,
The love of the master and slave,
But, drunk on your middle-class brew,
They reel to the doom of the foolish
Or madden on northwood and rice.

We know them; they know us. Between us
Is knowledge you never can know.
We know, for the centuries taught us;
They know, for they learned it in woe.
So, hand off! The burden is ours,
And, faithfully plodding along,
We'll make through the night to the morning
And answer to God for the wrong.

THE RATHGEBER TRIPLETS.

From Father Bears the News While Borrowing Baby's Clothes.

The residents of East New York, in Brooklyn, are confident that if President Roosevelt would just come around and take a peep in at the family of William Rathgeber, who lives in Drew avenue, near Atlantic, he would take a more hopeful view of the race suicide matter, says the New York Times. There is no race suicide going on in the Rathgeber household. Until a few days ago there were nine little Rathgebers. Now there are twelve, the newest three having arrived together.

Mr. Rathgeber was comfortably seated in the dining room reading his newspaper the other morning when the nurse opened the door and stuck her head in.

"It's a boy," she announced.

"Hooray!" exclaimed Mr. Rathgeber, throwing down his paper and rushing out to be congratulated by the neighbors. He was making a house to house hand shaking tour when one of his young sons overtook him.

"Hey, pop!" he said breathlessly, "there's another one of 'em!"

"Another what?" asked Mr. Rathgeber.

"She said it was a girl this time."

"Wow!" yelled Mr. Rathgeber, making a bee line for home.

As clothing for only one baby had been provided the second arrival caused some embarrassment and confusion. Mr. Rathgeber was sent out hot foot to borrow baby apparel from the neighbors. He was rushing from house to house when another of his many sons ran up to him.

"They says for you to get clothes enough for another one while you're at it," announced the youngster.

"What! For another one?" gasped Mr. Rathgeber.

"Yep; there's three of 'em now," returned the boy.

Mr. Rathgeber started back over the route and gathered together enough clothing for half a dozen babies. At the rate they were coming he felt that there might be that many there when he got back to the house. But the third baby, a boy, was the last. The father rushed off for his pastor and had him at once christen the new arrivals. They were named respectively Peter, Mary and Charles. Then he had the three photographed together and finally was for hoisting the flag on the roof and setting off a bunch or two of firecrackers, but was prevailed upon to forego this demonstration of fatherly pride.

Mr. Rathgeber has mailed the following letter to the chief executive at Washington to await his home coming from the west:

Dear Mr. President—I have always been a great admirer of yours, as I think all good German-Americans are, regardless of politics, because of your healthy, honest manliness. We who have to work with our hands cannot bear a snob or one who toadies to any man or power.

It is part of this character of yours to advocate the responsibilities of family care for husbands and wives, and by laying down the law in the way you have you have increased our respect for you, which was already great. This is especially true as we see that you practice what you preach.

I know you will be glad to hear that I, a poor wheelwright, who have already had the joy of nine children, now with my dear wife welcome three more, Peter, Charles and Mary, at one time, into the world. We have none of the fancy things of life, but we have the necessary comforts, and among these our little ones are far from the least, according to our way of thinking.

I have often enjoyed the pictures of your happy looking family in the papers, and I send you mine, from a loyal American, hoping you will enjoy seeing our latest arrivals. Very respectfully yours, W. L. RATHGEBER.

Lovemaking in Mexico.

In northwest Mexico the courting is all done by the lady. The young people meet at the feasts, and there the damsel who has fixed upon a member of the opposite sex whom she wishes to become her husband tries to attract his attention by dancing before him, persistently keeping her back turned toward him. Eventually she may sit down near him and pull his blanket and sing to him in a gentle, low voice. When she desires to bring matters to a focus, she begins to throw pebbles at the chosen one. If he throws them back at her, they are betrothed.

Eyes With Double Pupils.

Cicero says that "the glance of all women with the double pupil in the eye is noxious, blighting and withering." Cadmus tells us that such persons would not drown. Still others say that if they did drown the body would never sink, neither would it decay. They could cure the disease of the chest—consumption—by rubbing their perspiration on the affected parts of the individual, and in case the double pupils were red instead of black they could cure the lepers and the blind.

A FLOATING BATTERY.

Anson Phelps Stokes Explains His Latest Invention.

GOT IDEA FROM A FIGHTING ISLAND

Diamond Rock, in the Caribbean Sea, which served as a novel stone sloop of war for the British Navy in 1804, led him to invent his floating globular battery. Some of its Economic Features.

Anson Phelps Stokes, who returned to New York recently from a cruise in the yacht Sea Fox in the West Indies, told a representative of the New York Tribune something about his invention, the floating globular battery. He said: "While cruising in the Caribbean sea I sailed close to Diamond rock, a very remarkable little island about one mile south of Martinique. It is almost square, 574 feet high and with precipitous sides. This rock was formerly rated as a sloop of war on the books of the British admiralty.

"In January, 1804, Sir Samuel Hood laid his seventy-four gun ship Centaur close alongside this rock, to the top of which he made fast a hawser on which was a traveler. He then hauled three long 24 pounders and two 18 pounders to the top and left them in charge of Lieutenant Maurice with 120 men and boys with ammunition, provisions and water. The crew built a cistern, and for fifteen months this novel sloop of war did great injury to the French shipping going to and from the neighboring harbor, now called Fort of France, until June 1, 1805, when she surrendered for want of powder to a French squadron of two seventy-four gun ships, a corvet, a schooner and eleven gunboats. In this engagement the novel stone sloop of war Diamond Rock killed and wounded seventy men and destroyed three gunboats, with a loss to herself of two killed and one wounded.

"Reading this story as quoted by Kingsley from 'Naval Chronicles,' volume 12, page 206, and passing Diamond rock in 1893 and last year, led me to invent an armored globular battery, for which the United States and foreign governments have granted me patents.

"My rough preliminary sketches show a globular battery seventy feet in diameter and carrying two 15 inch guns fifty feet in length, having a range of about twenty miles, besides smaller guns.

"The great guns are rigidly fixed, and the elevation is effected by tilting the whole globular battery. This is done by weighted cars moving on sectional tracks. The azimuths are regulated by four screw propellers, which revolve the battery horizontally and have also the faculty of moving it from place to place."

Mr. Stokes' patent application supplies these other particulars:

"It will be seen that by reason of the spherical shape of my battery or vessel considerable weight is saved in construction, and from this, and especially by allowing the guns to extend across the most of the vessel, much heavier guns can be carried. Considerable economy in the cost of construction results from the spherical shape of the battery, for the reason that a large number of the parts are mere duplicates of each other and for other reasons obvious to a naval constructor. Another item of economy results from the fact that no gun carriage is used to hold the large guns. These carriages must necessarily be very expensive, and their omission not only saves a considerable expense, but produces a safer and more secure mount for the heaviest guns. The heavy armor covering for doors, windows and portholes can be more easily supported and more safely moved on the upper part of a spherical surface than on the vertical or nearly vertical sides of an ordinary ship. The spherical form of most of the vessel, combined with the bulging or frusto-conical bottom and its conical openings, and the placing of the center of gravity of the guns at or near that of the vessel give additional stability which is not found in vessels of the ordinary type. The launch and cutter are carried within the protection of the heavy armor and may be easily launched by depressing the port by means of the counterpoises.

"Thus all the features of my invention combine to produce a floating battery that is economical in construction and maintenance, of great power in offensive operations and practically impregnable."

At the time I began to use Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, my health was in a critical condition and my friends had almost given up hope of my recovery, and I am satisfied in my opinion that had it not been for Nau's Dyspepsia Cure, I would not be alive to write this letter. HUNTER ARRESTED

Policy Holder From Licking County
Reported Dead

Now Said to be in Jail—Insurance Company Fought the Payment of Insurance but Lost—
Suit Against Beneficiary Who Lives in Newark.

In 1896 the Advocate printed a story from Texas telling of the disappearance and probable death of Wm. A. Hunter, a former Licking county man. It was reported that he had been drowned in the Pecos river and his body lost in the quicksands. A hat known to have been Hunter's was found near the river bank. A short time before this Hunter took out $15,000 insurance with the Fidelity Mutual of Philadelphia, naming his sister, Mrs. Mettler, of Homer, now Mrs. James Smythe, of Elm street, this city, as beneficiary.

The insurance company contested the claim on the ground that Hunter was still living and in support of this claim David G. Wallace, a former Newark man, at that time a solicitor for the Advocate, declared that he had seen and had shaken hands with Hunter at Nashville, Tenn., after the reported death of the man. The case was carried through all the courts and in the end the insurance company lost over $24,000.

It is said now that Hunter is very much alive and is under arrest in the south. As already printed in the Advocate the insurance company has begun suit against Mrs. Smythe to recover money paid to her and a Dallas, Texas, dispatch says that she will be taken from Ohio to Texas, but that is not known what will be done with her.

The following dispatch from Texas gives additional details of the case: Dallas, Tex., May 5—Dallas has a life insurance swindle on hand involving persons in Ohio who, are said to be the principals in the sensation. In October, 1896, William A. Hunter, of Licking county, Ohio, appeared here, claiming to have come from Southern Texas. He applied for life insurance in the Fidelity Mutual Company, of Philadelphia, taking out three policies of $5,000 each, naming his sister, Mrs. Mettler, of Homer, Licking county, Ohio, as the beneficiary.

Captain A. J. Brown, the Dallas agent of the insurance company, issued the policies for the $15,000. Two months later, in December, 1896, Hunter left Dallas, saying he was going to look after lands in Loving county, Texas, on the New Mexico border in the Pecos river.

Soon after his departure he reported was spread that Hunter had been drowned in the Pecos river and his body lost in the quicksands. A hat known to have been his was found and gave color to the claim of death.

Mrs. Mettler put in a claim for the $15,000 life insurance. The company refused payment, alleging fraud and a bogus death claim. The Texas courts awarded judgment to Mrs. Mettler and the Supreme court of the United States affirmed the findings. Costs swelled the judgment against the insurance company to $24,000. This sum Captain Brown paid for the company last June.

Hunter, passing under the name of Hunt, was discovered living at Brookside, a small mining town 15 miles from Birmingham, Ala. He had lived there for five years. He was placed in jail at Birmingham. Captain Brown went there and identified him. Sheriff Johnson, of Dallas county, went to Birmingham last night with warrants and requisition papers already on indictments already found by the Dallas county grand jury.

Mrs. Mettler will be brought from Ohio. It is not known what course will be pursued toward her. Captain Brown said last night:

"The company's lawyers in Ohio in Philadelphia, in Birmingham and in Dallas are all working on the case. We propose to make an example of Hunter."

MRS. SMYTHE'S STATEMENT.
The Mrs. Mettler mentioned in the above dispatch from Dallas, Texas, is now Mrs. James Smythe, and lives at 542 Elm street, with her husband, her father, W. A. Hunter, Sr., and a brother, and sister. She was Miss Jennie Hunter, daughter of W. A. Hunter and lived with her father, then a prominent farmer of Burlington township. She was married to S. L. Mettler and lived with him in Texas until his death several years ago. She left Dallas, Texas, June 26, 1901, and came to Ohio. On March 26 last, she was married to James Smythe in Columbus. She is a middle aged woman of apparent refinement and unclouded intelligence. She was seen Tuesday morning at her home and gave a representative of the Advocate the following statement covering her connection with the alleged insurance frauds in Texas.

"I am glad to give the Advocate an account of my history in connection with this insurance business, as it is the only paper in Newark that has treated me right in the matter. Another paper not only printed some alleged news, but went out of the way to make comments about the case, and no effort was made to see me or obtain my side of the matter.

"My brother, W. A. Hunter, Jr., left home in the latter part of the year 1896, to go to the Pecos Valley to look after some lands there. He left word that he would return in a week, and after several weeks had passed and nothing was heard from him, searching parties were sent into the Pecos Valley headed by County Clerk Gibson, Messrs. Mansfield and Slack, prominent citizens and disinterested parties from any motives of financial gain, upon the finding of my brother, dead or alive. He lived at that time in Dallas, Texas."

"These parties went at different times and finally came upon wagon tracks, which led to a deserted camp. The camping outfit was soon recognized as my brother's and a thorough search was instituted for him. Tracks were discovered leading to the river, near which his camp had been pitched and none leading away. At the water's edge some broken twigs and roots of an overhanging tree, gave evidence that some one had probably been gathering wood for a camp fire, and had fallen into the stream. A search for the body was unsuccessful, as the place abounded in treacherous quicksands, and it was finally agreed that my unfortunate brother had met his death at this point, and his body had been engulfed in the sands.

"One of the horses of the outfit had been tied to a wheel of the wagon, and was found dead from starvation, the other having broken away and escaped. No hat was found by any of the searchers. Evidences were also discovered of a meal that had been prepared and eaten.

"About a month afterward, when settling up his estate, the three $5,000 life insurance policies were found in a bank by my lawyer, and I was notified of their existence then for the first time. I was named in the three as beneficiary, but never knew until they were discovered that he even carried an insurance on his life, much less that I was his beneficiary.

"I made a claim for the amount of the policies, and the company refused to pay them to me, alleging fraud, and I then brought suit in Dallas for $15,000 and interest. The case was decided in my favor, and after being several times appealed by the insurance company, was finally decided by the Supreme Court of the United States, and on June 12, 1902, I was paid the amount of the final judgment, $24,028.25. This amount included the $15,000 principal, 6 per cent. interest, 12 per cent. damages, and $2,500 attorney's fee, allowed by the Texas court.

"As far as I know my brother is dead, and I am firmly convinced that this is so today. The man arrested in Birmingham is not my brother. Of this I am positive.

"I was a bona fide policy beneficiary, and the proofs of death of W. A. Hunter, Jr., were positive enough to convince several juries, after the company had introduced the strongest evidence they could secure to combat these proofs of death. How can I be arrested, or in any way made a party to any fraud? NOVEL FEAST FOR BROKERS

Bulls, Bears and Rabbits Appear at a Dinner in New York.

Two bulls, two bears and an assortment of lambs were the guests of a dinner given the other night at Sherry's, in New York, by John S. Macle & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, for their out of town correspondents, who were in the city to attend the opening of the New York Tribune.

The walls of the hall were draped to represent farm land and woods. In the center was a large globe in which the table was set and the dinner served. Painted on the outside of the globe were a picture of the Broad Street front of the new exchange and a rolling country scene, with telegraph poles and wires leading from the exchange to all parts of the globe.

In one corner of the room was a bull pen fenced off. The posts of the pen were four pedestals on which were stock tickers and time hanging from them. During the early part of the evening two bulls and two bears were in the pen, while hounds gambolled on the grass mats which covered the floor. The odor arising from the animals, however, was too much for the diners, and they had to be removed. Two men, one made up as a bear, the other as a bull, had a wrestling match, but at the close of the dinner it was undecided whether the bull or the bear had won. A vaudeville performance followed.

ANTIQUÉ BELL PUT TO USE.

Spanish—Philippine—Curio (Call Workmen) Lunch.

A large copper bell with a romantic history covering nearly 200 years has been put to the practical purpose of calling the men to work and to lunch in the government occupation gardens, south of the Washington monument, says a special Philadelphia Press dispatch to the Washington Post. The bell was found with straw when it was recently shipped from transport with "forgotten" printed on it. It is a relic of the old buildings, bound up in Spanish style in the city of Manila, where it was found by a soldier of the Philippine army.

Colonel Bingham public grounds and it ordered it to be sent to the Smithsonian Institution. The bell was found in 1768, as is shown by the inscription on it, and sent to the Smithsonian Institution. CANNON PRAISES CUBA

"Uncle Joe" Impressed by Its Promises For the Future.

GOVERNMENT IS ON GOOD LINES.

Coming Speaker, After Traveling Over the Island, Predicts a Remarkable Development and Considers Its Peace, Prosperity and Trust in the United States an Object Lesson For Adjacent Republics.

No member of Secretary Moody's party enjoyed the visit to Cuba and Porto Rico and the opportunity it gave for observation more than Representative Cannon, who will be the next speaker of the house, says a special dispatch from Washington to the Philadelphia Press. "Uncle Joe" was particularly interested in his visit to Cuba and has come back a firm believer in its prosperity and future greatness. "Cuba has a soil which well merits the name Pearl of the Antilles and is capable of supporting a population of from 2,000,000 to 10,000,000 people," was Mr. Cannon's declaration the other day in relating his experiences. "I have traveled over the island, visited its sugar and tobacco plantations, talked with its people, examined its harbors, given some study to its government, and I am very much impressed with the promises that it holds out for the future."

At one time I thought we had made a mistake in adopting the Teller amendment to the Cuban resolutions pledging this government never forcibly to acquire Cuba. I thought it a mistake to have made any pledges regarding territory over which we had to go to war with another nation. But if that was a mistake we have remedied it by the Teller amendment, which has been accepted by Cuba and under which the new government provides for local government and leaves its international relations in our hands. Cuba could not support a navy and has no use for one. She has no army and little use for one. The United States navy will have naval stations on the north and south coasts of Cuba, and these will guarantee protection to the island. Our army can be called upon to subdue insurrections, and by supervising all the treaties negotiated by the Cuban government we are able to see that there are created no serious international complications to call for the interference of other nations.

"It seems to me that the Cuban government is started on good lines, and it is in good hands. President Palma is an able and discreet man and is making a wise executive. There are able men in the Cuban congress, and they have shown good judgment, patriotism and conservatism in their first legislative sessions. I see no reason to predict anything but success for this new Cuban government."

"Are they satisfied with the promise of reciprocity with the United States?" "They seem to be. They seem to trust this government implicitly, and they are not asking charity in this reciprocity question. It is a trade, and we get advantages that are equal to those given to Cuba."

"I can see no reason why Cuba should not have a remarkable development. Where there is rich soil and a good population there must be development. The sugar production is capable of considerable increase, there is promise of good cotton raising, of great development in fruit culture and of considerable development in cattle raising in the grazing country."

Mr. Cannon was asked about the natural station of the Panama canal and the nearest possible station to that great work. It is better located than the Santiago harbor and better suited to the wants of our navy. Both stations are located so as to furnish ample protection to Cuba.

"Will Cuba, in its present relations to the United States, prove a good model for Central and South American countries?"

"I hope that the peace and prosperity of Cuba will prove an example to the other islands and republics to the south of us. I believe it will show them that property and peace go together, and that revolutions do not bring prosperity to the people. As to the model furnished by the Cuban relations to the country, I am not so confident, but if Cuba demonstrates that she is capable of maintaining good local government by leaving international relations to the Monroe doctrine and the Platt amendment it ought to show to other countries of the continent that they can trust their interests to the same protecting influence and settle the vexed questions which continually arise in these countries."

SORE NECK

Take Scott's Emulsion for scrofula. Children often have sores on the neck that won't heal up. The sores may come and go. Parents may not know what's the matter nor what to do. Scrofula is the trouble and Scott's Emulsion is the medicine.

Scott's Emulsion heals the sores. But that is not all. Scrofula leads to consumption. This is the real danger.

Scott's Emulsion is the "ounce of prevention" that keeps off consumption.

OLD AND NEW COUNCIL

Wind Up and Adjournment Since Die of the Old Council and Organization of the New-- Clerk and President Pro tem Elected Resolutions Adopted.

The old city council met Monday evening with President Rossel in the chair. The members present were: Davis, Matlicks, Miller, Linn, J. R. Moser, Rossel, Smith, Speer and Dear.

Clark F. T. Maurath read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were approved. On motion council adjourned sine die.

The new council was called to order by President Rossel and the roll called, the new members present were Henry Baker, Charles Conrad, S. M. Hunter, Rees R. Jones, W. E. Miller, J. R. Moser and H. Rossel.

The newly elected members presented their certificates of election.

On motion the election of a clerk was postponed until the next meeting. Judge Hunter moved that Mr. Maurath act as clerk, pro tem; carried.

On motion of Judge Hunter, the council proceeded to the election of a president pro tem. The names of Wm. E. Miller and S. M. Hunter were presented. Hunter withdrew and Miller was elected.

On motion, the election of the sergeant-at-arms was postponed until the next meeting.

Discussion then arose as to whether the council was properly organized to do business until a clerk of the council was elected. Thereupon the previous motion to postpone the election of a clerk until the next meeting was rescinded, and a resolution was offered to elect F. T. Maurath as clerk.

Judge Hunter, before the adoption of the resolution electing F. T. Maurath, clerk, explained that he wished it distinctly understood that he in no way was trying to antagonize Mr. Maurath's election, but wanted the delay only for the purpose of learning the running of the council and also that he did not want to see any hasty action, which would later have to be undone. The resolution to elect F. T. Maurath was adopted.

Judge Hunter then offered the following resolutions.

That the rules and order of business of the late city council, being in force after April 1st, 1901, be adopted as the rules and order for this council, as far as they are applicable under the statutes of the state, until the further order of the council. Adopted.

That the president appoint standing committees; Finance, Law, Streets and Highways, Public Service, Public Safety, State Relations and County Relations. Adopted.

Hon. W. E. Miller, in behalf of the members of the Scheidler family asked to thank the members of the old council who had been kind and thoughtful in extending the sympathy of that body to the family during the death of Mr. Scheidler, and also for the beautiful floral tribute.

Council then adjourned.

GREATLY ALARMED

By a Persistent Cough, but Permanently Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. H. P. Burbage, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough, which he says "greatly alarmed me, causing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Mr. Burbage having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, concluded to try it. Now read what he says of it: "I soon felt a remarkable change, and after using two bottles of the twenty-five cent size, was permanently cured." Sold by all druggists.

CLAY LICK.

The funeral services over the remains of the late John W. Lake took place on Sunday morning, and were largely attended.

James Hilleary, an old Clay Lick boy, now a resident of Newark, was here over Sunday, the guest of friends.

Prof. Jefferson Carlin is enjoying a delightful visit with friends at Lewis' Mills.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bagaant last week, and left a little girl.

Messrs. Ben Whiteford, Mac Mossman and William Jones constituted a party that went to Newark on Saturday.

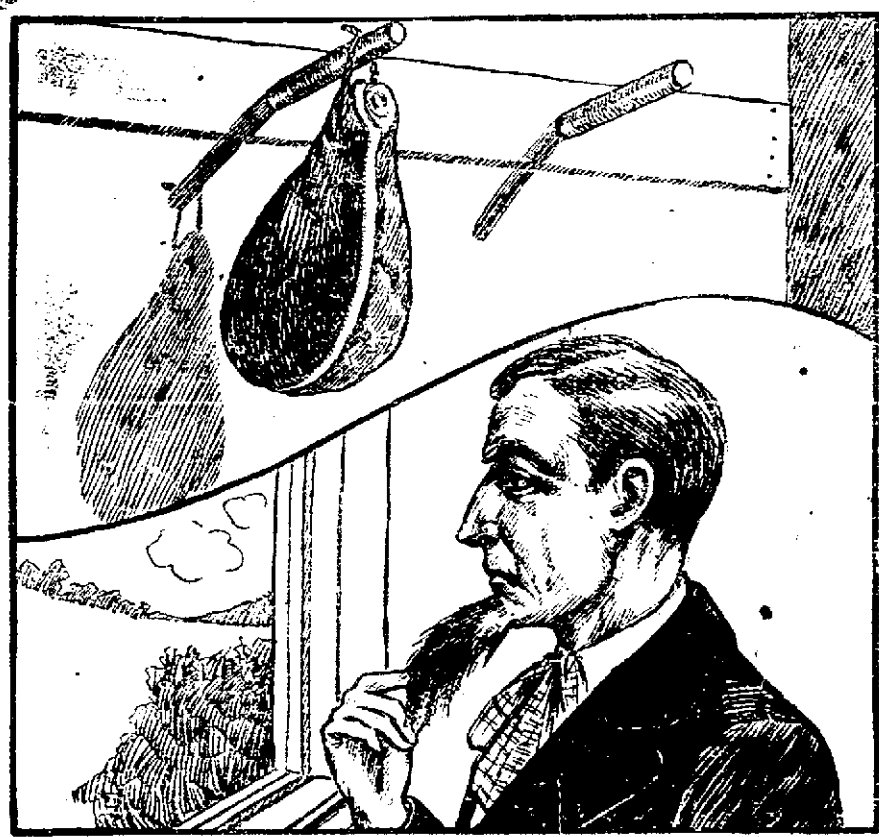

Rev. John Shepard delivered a most impressive sermon here on Sun evening.

Your correspondent reiterates the statement made by him several weeks ago, viz: that Clay Lick's superlative need is a commodious church building to be used by all denominations.

The forests near Clay Lick are becoming beautiful, the dog wood and other flowering trees having bloomed.

During the past year 861 persons were cremated in Germany, an excess of 200 over the previous year.

PICTORIAL LITERARY PUZZLE.

WHAT DICKENS CHARACTER IS REPRESENTED?

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

superiority of Aluminum Utensils. Aluminum utensils seem designed expressly for the woman who elects to do her own housework.

"Copper kettles require eternal vigilance and scrubbing to keep them pure and bright," said a housewife of experience. "Even a pure silver vessel in which eggs have been cooked has to be scoured to get off the stain, and tin kettles and porcelain lining discolors. But you may boil pickles or chowder or any concoction with acids in an aluminum pot for hours and there won't be a spot to show. It is as pure as porcelain. And as for the outside of the platter, owing to its high polish the aluminum pot or kettle does not get half as smutty as utensils of other wares, and therefore one avoids much of the drudgery associated with the kitchen sink. I find also that anything put on to cook in an aluminum vessel gets done much quicker than if cooked in copper, tin or iron. Then I can lift and move the largest aluminum utensil I have easily with one hand.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

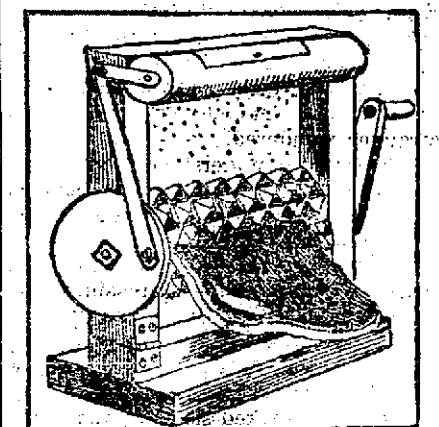

Table Linen.

Finesse is not a safe guide either for durability or lasting beauty. Weight is the standard of price, and it is not advisable to buy table linen that weighs less than four and one-half ounces per square yard. The comparative merits of bleached and unbleached napers depend upon the use to which it is to be put and the opportunity for bleaching by the housewife.

For common or rough use it is often well to buy the unbleached and also in the country or suburbs, where one can bleach it on the grass or out in the sun, but not all city housekeepers are able to whiten their linen. The German linen wears well, but it is not so snow white or varied in pattern as the Irish importation.

Meat Tenderer and Seasoner.

Some beefsteak is so tough that the housekeeper prefers to subdue it with the hammer or some other implement before submitting it to the teeth of fault finding boarders, and it is probable that even a tender piece of meat is improved if the fibers are broken up before it is cooked. While a number of machines have already been introduced for doing this work it is probable that the one here illustrated has one feature not common to those in use. It is the intention of the inventor to have the meat seasoned at the same time the fibers are crushed by the rollers of the machine, thus incorporating the salt and pepper with the meat.

GRINDS THE CONDIMENT INTO THE MEAT more thoroughly than can be done by hand. The apparatus consists of a pair of toothed rollers suspended in a frame, with the teeth of one roller entering depressions in the opposite roller to subject the slice of meat to the crushing effect of the alternate surfaces as the rollers are revolved back and forth by turning the crank at the end. Pressure is applied to the rolls while in motion by springs mounted to the frame, and the latter opens on one side to permit the removal of the parts for cleaning. After the meat has been crushed sufficiently a slide is opened in the condiment holder in the top of the frame, when further revolution of the machine shakes the salt and pepper down on the rollers and grinds it into the fibers.

Uses of Denim.

Lightweight denim makes good, durable work aprons, easily washed and ironed and always clean looking. Lightweight art denim also makes a very serviceable crumb cloth under the dining table to save the carpet or matting from the stains of the men's feet. Tack the corners down with brass headed tacks, which may be bought for 5 cents a box, four dozen in a box. When badly soiled, the cloth may be taken up and washed. Many use heavy art denim, of which there is now a variety of pleasing shades, for floor covering and chambers, sewing or dining room. It wears about as well as carpet and costs about 15 cents a yard.

Save the Paraffin.

Many housewives who do their own preserving are not aware that the paraffin wax used in covering the jelly glasses can be used again season after season. One woman who is obliged to consider where the pennies go seldom buys a new supply of the wax. As each jelly glass is opening during the winter for serving at table the paraffin is removed, washed clean and put away in a tin cup kept for the purpose. When preserving time comes again, there is a little store ready at hand.

Individual Chicken Pie.

A good thing for the housekeeper to know about is individual chicken pie. For this use the remnants of the chicken or turkey that are left from a previous meal. Make a rich pastry and line patty pans with it, mince the chicken, season it well and fill it into the pans, moistening it slightly with the gravy; put on a cover of the crust as for any pie and bake. Serve with them the gravy left from the chicken. Sometimes children like these little pies for lunch at school.

Happy Homes

One of the essentials of the happy homes of to-day is a fund of information as to right living and the best methods of promoting health and happiness. With proper knowledge, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and are of not less value than the using of the most wholesome foods and the selecting of the best medicinal agents when needed. With the well-informed, medicinal agents are used only when nature needs assistance and while the importance of cleansing the system effectually, when bilious or constipated, has long been known, yet until within recent years it was necessary to resort to oils, salts, extracts of roots, barks and other cathartics which were found to be objectionable and to call for constantly increased quantities.

Then physicians having learned that the most excellent laxative and carminative principles were to be found in certain plants, principally in the leaves, the California Fig Syrup Co. discovered a method of obtaining such principles in their purest condition and of presenting them with pleasant and refreshing liquids in the form most acceptable to the system and the remedy became known as—Syrup of Figs—as figs were used, with the plants, in making it, because of their agreeable taste.

This excellent remedy is now rapidly coming into universal use as the best of family laxatives, because it is simple and wholesome and cleanses and sweetens the system effectually without disturbing the natural functions and without unpleasant after effects and its use may be discontinued when it is no longer required.

All who would enjoy good health and its blessings should remember that it is the one remedy which physicians and parents well-informed approve and recommend and use and which they and their little ones alike enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all reliable druggists, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, in original packages only, having the name of the remedy—Syrup of Figs—and the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package.

INVENTOR OF THE "RICKEY"

Colonel Rickey's Story of the Birth of the Famous Beverage.

It was in Washington that the late Colonel Joseph Kyle Rickey came into national prominence, for it was while there as a lobbyist that he invented the famous "rickey," says the New York American. In the past Colonel Rickey often told of the birth of the famous beverage.

"It was in Shermaker's at Washington with George Williamson at the bar," he often said, "that the first rickey was made. I came in with Colonel Bill Hatch and some other friends, and I wasn't feeling very well. So I said, 'George, I want some bourbon, but I want the drink to be long and cold and mighty sour.' Then I saw some limes on the bar, and I said: 'There you are. That's the thing. Put some lime in it.' And George did it. Colonel Hatch had one with me, and we just smacked our lips. It was delicious and very, very refreshing."

But as to the "gin rickey," which has also become widely popular, Colonel Rickey time and again denounced any fatherhood of it.

Rickey always contended that the use of rye whisky or gin in a rickey made it unfit for a gentleman to drink.

"Fighting Jim's" Claim

[Original.]

In the days when the forty-niners in California were hunting for the big mines that afterward became bonanzas a man appeared in Billon gulch and located a claim. He was a powerful fellow and a bully, and it was not long before his neighbors were afraid of him. He didn't trouble them to remember his name, and they gradually got used to calling him "Fighting Jim."

One day Jim told his neighbors that he was going to Frisco. He intended leaving his cabin unlocked and his claim unprotected "just for the fun," he said, "of seeing some galoot jumper, when I get back, bunkin' in the one or workin' the other." Then he added, "Ye'll see somepin happen." With this he departed.

There was none of the people of Billon gulch so rash as to interfere with either of Jim's properties. Several strangers came along, took a look at the claim, were very warned and departed. Jim's belongings were considered as safe as if he had left a dozen men for its protection.

One day a young fellow came to the gulch, asked a great many questions about the prospects of gold, claims to be had and claims not to be had. Incidentally Jim's claim was mentioned, with the usual warning. That night a light was observed in Jim's cabin, and the next morning the stranger was at work in Jim's claim. A self constituted committee of the most prominent citizens proceeded to the hole that had been dug and kindly informed the youngster that he was not only wasting his time, but that Jim, when he returned, would necessitate their burying the jumper at the public expense. The fellow put his hand in his pocket and, taking out a bag of gold dust, remarked:

"I'm no sponge to bring unnecessary expense on my neighbors. Take that for security." With that he resumed his pick and the committee departed to spread the news through the gulch that there was a lunatic working Jim's claim and the gulch was sure on Jim's return to be disgraced by its first murder.

In a couple of weeks Jim returned. He gathered all he met into the principal saloon of the town to drink to his return, and several citizens took advantage of the fact to break the news of the jumping of his claim and his claim and to strive to induce Jim to bring no disgrace on the hitherto peaceful community. Their efforts were vain. Jim had scarcely heard of the outrage when, hitching his revolver forward, he left the saloon in hot haste to wreak vengeance on the stranger. The crowd followed with bated breath. On nearing the mine the peaceful sound of the pick was heard. Jim, disdaining to take advantage of an unwarned enemy, strode up empty handed to the side of the hole. The jumper went on picking the earth, and Jim growled:

"Hello, you, there!"

The youngster turned his oval face, delicate except the month, which was firm as adamant, and replied:

"Hello, Jim!"

Jim stood paralyzed, and the jumper continued:

gled. Bidwell got a base on balls, Fox bunted and German threw wild to first, Arndt scoring, Russell going to second and third. Mohr was sent to bat in place of Bailey and sent a corking single to right, scoring the two runs and winning an exciting game for his team by a score of 5 to 1.

College Games.

Yale was badly beaten at New Haven Monday by the Penn State University, by a score of 15 to 0.

Harvard won an easy victory over Dartmouth at Hanover, Monday, 9 to 1. Franklin defeated Butler at Franklin, Ind., by a score of 5 to 2.

Millionaire Thomas Enters Racing.

New York, May 5.—E. R. Thomas, the latest millionaire to take up racing as a pastime, will be represented in the Saratoga Special, the great two year old race of the mid-summer meeting at the Springs. The horses he will name for the event are Dimple, St. Valentine and Vagary.

Dimple is by Mirhind-Myrtle Harkness and is therefore a full sister of Acetull, who is the American hope for this season's renewal of the English Oaks of next season.

Mr. Thomas' colors will likely be seen for the first time in the Metropolitan handicap Thursday. Yardarm, the three year old Henry of Navarre colt, has been pointed for the event, and his showing has been enough to warrant his starting for the race.

Mr. Thomas is a son of the late General Thomas, and a brother-in-law of Mrs. Ada Blandy Thomas, formerly of Newark.

Circleville Beats Zanesville.

Circleville, O., May 5.—Circleville defeated the Zanesville team in a 12-inning game by a score of 5 to 4. Batteries, Wisner and South for Circleville; Lillis and Dudley for Zanesville.

"I've understood from these people that 'ye're goin' to make hash o' me. If y' do, ye're a good deal changed from what y' were last time I saw y'." I reckon this western air must ha' put a lot o' starch into y'."

Still Jim stood mute, and those who had come to see him "chaw up" the stranger wondered.

"I want y' to understand," the jumper continued, "that this claim belongs to me. While y've been foolin' yer time away at Frisco I've been workin' it. Now, git down here and go to work. Gentlemen—addressing the crowd—"the show's over. There isn't a-goin' to be any funeral today nor tomorrow nor none at all. So y' might as well go about yer business."

The party walked slowly away, leaving Jim and the jumper together. From that day Jim was a changed man. He talked no more of fighting, kept away from the saloon, devoting his time to the working of the claim, which had apparently passed into the control of the stranger. Then suddenly the jumper disappeared. As soon as he had gone Jim stopped work. His old associates expected that he would reveal the mystery, but he maintained absolute silence. Weeks passed, then months. Occasionally Jim would wander into the saloon, apparently to kill time, but was careful of his potatoes and his words.

One day a letter came to Jim bearing a New York postmark. From the moment of its reception Jim was again changed. This time it was a different change; he was hilarious. He gathered the people of the gulch into the saloon and treated all round. Then he went to his cabin and to bed. The next morning the cabin was empty. Jim had disappeared.

"It's as plain as the nose on yer face," said the chief citizen. "Jim was wanted for murder. It wouldn't do no good for him to kill the jumper, sense he'd been located; so he bribed him to go back and clear the coast for him to take to other over. That letter told him that the place had been foiled."

One day a party of professional mine operators appeared in the gulch and opened up Jim's claim, which proved to be one of the richest mines in the country.

"Who sold you the mine?" queried the gulchers.

"James Flint and Lemmie Flint, his wife. Flint came out and prospected. Then his wife came out, and it was she who went east and negotiated the sale to the company. They got a million for it."

A RAILWAY'S HOODOO.

Gray White Owl's Cries Believed to Foretell Disaster.

A gray and white owl which lurks in trees in the early mornings and hoots in the twilight as trains of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad go whizzing by New Haven, Conn., has come to be regarded as a hoodoo by the trainmen, says the Philadelphia Press.

Death and catastrophe have marked the system for weeks. Hardly a day has passed but a wreck has occurred or a trainman has gone to his death. In nearly every instance engineers and firemen say the hoodoo owl appeared by night or day a few hours before. So strong has grown the superstition concerning the hoodoo bird that attempts have been made to kill it, but though stray shots have been fired from trains in the suburbs no one has reported having hit the owl.

An Old Favorite

IN BOHEMIA
By John Boyle O'Reilly

IT is perhaps unnecessary to state that not Bohemia, the ancient kingdom of central Europe, is referred to in the following poem by the late John Boyle O'Reilly, but that mythical region of good fellowship where men and women of brain met on a footing of equality, without regard to wealth or social standing. Some dissolute characters call themselves "Bohemians," but their irregular habits do not entitle them to that designation, as is sometimes erroneously supposed. The qualifications of the true "Bohemians" are well stated in the following verses:

I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land;
For only there are the values true,
And the laurels gathered in all men's view.
The prizes of traffic and state are won
By shrewdness of force or by deeds undone;
But fame is sweeter without the feud,
And the wise of Bohemia are never shrewd.
Here pilgrims stream with a faith sublime
From every class and clime and time,
Aspiring only to be enrolled
With the names that are writ in the book of gold;
And each one bears in mind or hand
A palm of the dear Bohemian land.
The scholar first, with his book—a youth
Adorned with the glow of harvested truth;
A girl with a picture, a man with a play,
A boy with a wolf he has mugged in clay,
A smith with a marvelous bit and sword,
A player, a king, a plowman, a lord—
And the player is king when the door is past,
The plowman is crowned, and the lord is last!

I'd rather fail in Bohemia than win in another land;
There are no titles inherited there,
No board or hope for the brainless heir,
No gifted dullard, native born,
To stare at his fellow with leaden scorn;
Bohemia has none but adopted sons;
Its limits, where fancy's bright stream runs;
Its honors, not garnered for thrift or trade,
But for beauty and truth men's souls have made.
To the empty heart in a jeweled breast
There is value, maybe, in a purchased crest;
But the thirsty of soul soon learn to know
The moistureless froth of the social show;
The vulgar sham of the pompous feast
Where the heaviest purse is the highest priest;
The organized charity scrippled and leed,
In the name of a cautious, statistical Christ:
The smile restrained, the respectable cant,
When a friend in need is a friend in want;
Where the only aim is to keep aloof,
And a brother may drown with a cry in his throat.
O, I long for the glow of a kindly heart
And the grasp of a friendly hand,
And I'd rather live in Bohemia than in any other land.

"Grandpa," asked small Edna as she watched the old gentleman feeding the chickens, "do all hens eat with their noses?"

"What's patrimony, papa?" asked little Dot.

"Patrimony, my dear," replied papa, "is something inherited from the father."

"Oh," exclaimed Dot, "then matrimony must be something inherited from the mother!"

"Mamma," queried the little Kentucky boy, "what was Adam's first name?"

"He had only the one, dear," she replied.

"And did Eve call him Adam?" was asked.

"I suppose so," answered the mother. "What else could she have called him?"

"Well," replied the little observer, "she might have called him 'Colonel.'"

A pupil in a village school who had been requested to write an essay on the human body handed in the following:

"The human body consists of the head, thorax, abdomen and legs. The head contains the brains in case there are any. The thorax contains the heart and lungs, also the liver and lights. The abdomen contains the bowels, of which there are five—a, e, i, o, u and sometimes v and y. The legs extend from the abdomen to the floor and have hinges at the top and middle to enable a fellow to sit when standing or to stand when sitting."—Chicago News.

His Inside Information.

A Christian Scientist while walking in the country came across a small boy sitting under an apple tree, doubled up with pain.

"My little man," he said, "what is the matter?"

"I ate some green apples," moaned the boy, "and, oh, how I ache!"

"You don't ache," answered the follower of Mrs. Eddy. "You only think so."

The boy looked up in astonishment at such a statement, and then replied, in a most positive manner:

"That's all right. You may think so, but I've got inside information."—Philadelphia Ledger.

TAKE IT IN MAY.

Purifies the Blood as Nothing Else Can Do—
Makes Strong Nerves, Cures Disease.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Weariness, insomnia, impure blood, and nerve troubles make life a burden for our women in springtime. Accumulations of waste and morbid matters in the blood during the winter season have poisoned the life stream, causing the liver to become sluggish, and the kidneys are suffering and unable to remove waste and dangerous products from the system. It is now time for the sick and ailing to strike at the root of trouble. The month of May should be a time of recuperation and cure. The needed and blessed work can be successfully accomplished by the use of Paine's Celery Compound, the only medicine that can correct unhealthy nerve action, and feed the nerve centers with elements that will build them up into healthy tissues. Try Paine's Celery Compound this month if you are suffering, weak, languid and despondent; happy and blessed results will follow. Mrs. Rebecca K.

Rowland, Lexington, Kentucky, writes as follows:—

"Some time ago I had a very severe attack of Grip, and it left me with a cough. Then kidney and bowel troubles set in, and I became so weak that I reeled when I walked. I was so nervous I could scarcely feed myself, and could only sleep a small part of the night. I had doctor after doctor, but did not get rid of my ailments. I chanced to hear of some wonderful cures wrought by Paine's Celery Compound, and decided to give it a trial. I did so, and it cured me of my troubles. I thank God that Paine's Celery Compound was discovered; it made me strong, it made me walk, and it gave me sleep. People say to me: 'You look younger than you did ten years ago,' and I reply that Paine's Celery Compound did it, with God's help. I shall praise Paine's Celery Compound while I live for all it has done for me."

CHINA WANTS BICYCLES.

Not the Diamond Frame, but the Kind American Women Ride.

At first blush the idea of a Chinaman riding a bicycle seemed ludicrous, says the Nashville Banner. The picture is presented of flowing garments and pig-tail. But, as a matter of fact, the Chinese, while unprogressive in many ways, have taken quite kindly to the bicycle.

In China the use of bicycles is increasing notably, according to the report of Henry B. Miller, United States consul at Newchwang. He says that the possibilities of the market there are limited only by the abilities of the Chinese to purchase. He recommends a special study of the character of wheels suited to China and expresses the opinion that in north China, where the Chinese travel extensively, the wheel would be used much more if it was brought within their means. The roads are rough, and a substantial wheel is needed, while, because of their dress, a wheel designed for women is in greater favor than the frame used by American men. Mr. Miller argues that strength, durability and cheapness are more important to the Chinese than lightness and comfort. He suggests a special type for use in China, where pneumatic tires puncture easily and are hard to repair and where low pedals strike obstacles. He advises the manufacture of bicycles for the Chinese trade of this type: Chainless, pedals clearing the ground at least six inches, cushion frame, with compensating device to equalize pedal reach; solid or nonpneumatic tires and extra thick spokes with strong threads. He says that unnecessary fancy work should be avoided to reduce cost and that copper rims are preferable to steel or wood. It is also important that bicycles intended for the Chinese trade should have luggage carriers and brake of simple construction.

AMUSEMENTS.

MANHATTAN STOCK CO.

The Manhattan Stock company opened a three nights engagement at the Auditorium, presenting the roaring farce "A Wife Wanted." The theatre was crowded and the audience was well pleased with the performance, as was evidenced by the hearty applause and stirring laughter which greeted many of the comical situations.

Specialties were introduced during the evening by Effie Hartwell and Wm. Pitter two of the best comedy acrobats ever seen in Newark, Nick Russell, who does a really creditable musical sketch, performing on the piano in all manners of attitude and styles of technique, while Isabel Mae Steen, a soprano of excellent quality of tone sang several pleasing ballads.

The bill for tonight will be a beautiful three act drama entitled, "Home, Sweet Home." New specialties will also be introduced.

The Wednesday matinee will be 10 cents to any part of the theatre.

THIRTY YEARS OF FREEDOM.

A drama entitled Thirty Years of Freedom will be presented by the young people of the A. M. E. church at Taylor Hall on Saturday evening, May 9. This drama is well worth seeing and should be patronized by the public. Admission 25 cts. 5-5-5t.

CROMWELL ENTERTAINMENT.

Rehearsals for the Cromwell entertainment are shaping nicely. Four scenes were on last evening and a fair conception of the general work was given the participants.

Not only are the scenes historically accurate but the lecture is an intellectual treat.

In this production Mrs. Monroe invests the great characters of the past with flesh and blood so as to make them not only interesting but worthy of emulation. She thus not only proves an entertainer, but a teacher as well. She has visited every spot mentioned in the lecture; is a member of the author's club of London, which membership entitled her to the use of some valuable court documents in preparing this entertainment; visited the Palais du costume during the exposition, securing patterns of costumes worn by famous characters contemporary with Cromwell, Charles I and Louis XIV.

St. Paul's Lutheran church deserves the co-operation of all good citizens in their attempt to have such a high class production rendered in our community.

Reserved seats for May 14 and 15 at Wiles-Erman drug store, on Monday, May 10th.

THE TEMPEST COMING.

Augustus E. McCune, business manager for Louis James and Frederick Warde, presenting "The Tempest" at the Auditorium on May 12, was in the city today. Mr. McCune cancelled at Zanesville to come to Newark, and from here the big company of 50 people goes to the Great Southern, Columbus where it is already being widely advertised. "The Tempest" promises to be a big event of the theatrical season.

Home Testimony

A few days ago one of our leading and best known citizens came in and asked for a bottle of medicine. With a few words he said: "That is the best thing you ever brought to the town. I have tried it with splendid results for Eczema and Skin Eruptions which had bothered me for years. Do not hesitate to recommend it."

The medicine above referred to was
